BRIEF HISTORY

The ISO Recommendation R 141, Pirn Winders and Cross Winders - Definition of side (left or right), was drawn up by Technical Committee ISO/TC 72, Textile Machinery and Accessories, the Secretariat of which is held by the Association Suisse de Normalisation (SNV).

From its first meeting, held in Zurich, in July 1950, the Technical Committee had decided to include in its programme of work the item of definition of side of machines.

At its second meeting, held in Scheveningen, in September 1951, the Technical Committee assigned the study of this question to a Working Group, composed of Belgium, France, Netherlands, United Kingdom, Switzerland and, as from 1952, Germany. This Working Group met several times to prepare a draft proposal.

At the third plenary meeting of the Technical Committee, held in Brussels, in July 1955, this draft proposal was unanimously adopted by the delegates present as a Draft ISO Recommendation.

On 24 May 1957, the Draft ISO Recommendation (No. 163) was distributed to all the ISO Member Bodies and was approved, subject to small editorial amendments, by the following 26 (out of a total of 38) Member Bodies:

Austria	India	* Portugal
Belgium	* Ireland	Rumania
Bulgaria	Italy	Spain
* Canada	Japan	* Sweden
Chile	Netherlands	Switzerland
* Denmark	* New Zealand	United Kingdom
France	* Norway	U.S.A.
Germany	Pakistan	U.S.S.R.
* Greece	Poland

No Member Body opposed the approval of the Draft.

The Draft ISO Recommendation was then submitted by correspondence to the ISO Council, which decided, in January 1960, to accept it as an ISO RECOMMENDATION.

---

* These Member Bodies stated that they had no objection to the Draft being approved.
