Foreword

The Universal Decimal Classification (UDC) was originally derived from Dewey Decimal Classification (DDC), and managed by the organization now known as the International Federation for Information and Documentation (FID). It was first published (in french) from 1904 to 1907. On 1 January 1992, all rights and responsibilities for UDC were transferred to the UDC Consortium (UDCC), whose founder members are:

AENOR (Asociación Española de Normalización y Certificación), Spain
Bohn Stafleu Van Loghum, Netherlands

BSI/DISC, UK

CLPCF (Centre de Lecture publique de la Communauté française de Belgique), Belgium

FID

INFOSTA-NIPDOK (Information Science and Technology Association), Japan.

The preparation and publication of the English versions of UDC as BS 1000 was at the original joint request of the British Society for International Bibliography (BSIB) and the Association of Special Libraries and Information Bureaux (ASLIB), now amalgamated as Aslib, the Association for Information Management. It was approved by Lake Placid Education Foundation, New York, then proprietors of the Dewey Decimal Classification. DDC is now published by Forest Press, a division of OCLC Online Computer Library Center, Inc., Albany, N.Y., the current owner of the copyright in DDC. UDC editions are authorized by the Executive Committee of the UDCC in various languages and at various levels of inclusiveness. This is part of the English full edition.

We suggest that this section should be used in conjunction with a synopsis of UDC such as BS 1000 Universal Decimal Classification. International Medium Edition. English text, which refers to many other subjects of interest not listed in this schedule, and provides a conspectus of the whole scheme, together with an introduction to its use. For further practical information about the principles, application and use of the scheme, users should refer to BS 1000C Guide to the Universal Decimal Classification.

This edition of the third and final part of Table I(e), which replaces material published as part of BS 1000 : Vol 1, Part 1 : 1943, includes modifications authorized in Extensions and Corrections to the UDC (FID publication no. 248) up to and including Series 14, No. 3, dated September 1992. It was drafted under the auspices of FID, which approved it for publication; it is now issued by BSI/DISC in its capacity as English-language member of the UDC Consortium.

British Standards related to this Part of BS 1000 are listed on the inside back cover.

Compliance with a British Standard does not of itself confer immunity from legal obligations.

Introduction

0 General

The introduction to BS 1000 : Auxiliaries I(e) : Part 1 is applicable to the whole of Table I(e). A few clauses, however, are summarized here, and additional information presented.

1 Scope

This part of Table I(e) contains the common auxiliaries of place (5) 'Asia', (6) 'Africa', (7/8) 'America, North and South' and (9) 'States and regions of the South Pacific and Australia. Arctic. Antarctic'. Some obsolete administrative divisions of Angola (673), Mozambique (679) and Chile (83) have been relegated to an annex beginning on page 31.

2 Up-to-dateness and political changes

2.0 BSI/DISC is aware that some parts of Table I(e) do not reflect the present state of affairs and the political status of the countries concerned, and, with its partners in the UDC Consortium, will continue to support the phased revision of the table (initiated and partly carried out under the management of FID). Development of UDC is by international agreement, and it is not possible to act unilaterally in the preparation of a single edition. This English-language version, begun under the aegis of FID and completed after transfer of the ownership of UDC to the Consortium, conforms to the currently authorized state of the classification. In many places, the use of alphabetic subdivision (see 6.1) is suggested, to allow for the current administrative divisions.

2.1 It has not been possible to take account of recent political changes such as the merging of Yemen North and South to form the Republic of Yemen in May 1990, and the dissolution of the Soviet Union in December 1991. The current entities may be classed at the same numbers as the superseded ones, using auxiliary signs if necessary, thus:

- (47 + 57) Collective information about the former Soviet states, and the members of the Commonwealth of Independent States
(Not in this fascicle; see BS 1000 : Table I(e) : Part 2.)
- (533/534) Yemen, North and South. The Republic of Yemen
- (57) The former Soviet Asian republics, and the Asiatic members of the Commonwealth of Independent States

3 Disclaimer

The English edition of Table I(e) of the Universal Decimal Classification is a full translation of authorized texts that were originally the intellectual property of the International Federation for Information and Documentation (FID), and have now been transferred to the UDC Consortium. The place-names used, the selection and sequence of regions, descriptive expressions and relations implied by the numeric hierarchy do not constitute any endorsement of their national or international status either by the UDC Consortium or by any of its members, including BSI/DISC. No opinions about any of these matters should be inferred from this publication.

4 Related subjects

The following sections of UDC contain subjects related to those in this fascicle.

- Table I(d) Common auxiliaries of form
- Table I(f) Common auxiliaries of race and nationality
- 91 Geography

5 Combination, citation order and independent use

The common auxiliaries of place may be cited with main numbers when the place aspect is secondary, or combined with different auxiliaries or with other place auxiliaries. They may also be used independently, so creating a sequence in which the place facet is the only one expressed.

6 Auxiliary signs and subdivisions

6.0 General

Information about auxiliary signs and subdivisions is to be found in BS 1000 : Auxiliaries, BS 1000C and BS 1000M.

6.1 Common auxiliaries

The whole of table I(e) consists of common auxiliaries. Colon combinations and other auxiliaries may, however, be used in the normal way, e.g.

- (931 + 94) New Zealand and Australia
- (931:94) New Zealand in relation to Australia
- (962.3/.6) Cook Islands, Tokelau Islands, Niue (dependent territories of New Zealand)
- (99:410) Antarctica in relation to the UK. British Antarctic Territory

NOTE. In accordance with the 1961 Antarctic Treaty, territorial claims in Antarctica are now in abeyance, and the colon combinations formerly listed under (99) are no longer displayed. However, they continue to be available at the user's discretion.

Alphabetic subdivision is suggested at many places in the table, e.g. (517.3A/Z), which implies the possibility of (517.3ARH) Arhangay Province, Mongolia.

The asterisk, introducing non-UDC numbering, is suggested at (728.5*1/*6) and (881*1/*10); the former implies the possibility of (728.5*2) Region II of Nicaragua.

6.2 Special auxiliaries

The special auxiliaries listed under (1) are applicable throughout table I(e), e.g.

(1-13) South. Southern

(564.3) Cyprus

(564.3-13) Southern Cyprus.

The auxiliaries listed at (1-10) 'Zones pertaining to particular places' are repeated at the relevant numbers, i.e. (5), (6), (7), (8) and (9).

7 Typographic presentation

Small type [thus] is used for cancelled numbers and text, usually accompanied by relocation references for the deleted concepts. Such relocations are given for entries that have appeared in previous English editions of UDC.

The arrow → means either 'see' or 'see also' according to the context.

The 'subdivide as' symbol ≡ means that the number preceding it may be subdivided in the same way as, and with meanings analogous to the subdivisions of, the number which follows it.

(5) ASIA
