National foreword

This Section of BS 684 is identical with ISO 934:1980 “Animal and vegetable fats and oils — Determination of water content — Entrainment method”, published by the International Organization for Standardization (ISO) and supersedes BS 684-1.16:1976, which is therefore withdrawn.

Method 2 (intended for use when an emulsion of water and solvent is formed) of the 1976 edition is not included in this revision as it is no longer required.

Terminology and conventions. The text of the International Standard has been approved as suitable for publication as a British Standard without deviation. Some terminology and certain conventions are not identical with those used in British Standards; attention is especially drawn to the following.

The comma has been used throughout as a decimal marker. In British Standards it is current practice to use a full point on the baseline as the decimal marker.

Wherever the words “International Standard” appear, referring to this standard, they should be read as “British Standard”.

Additional information. In 8.3, paragraph 4, there is reference to the use of a brush or a wire. The use of a brush may be unsuitable and it is recommended that a wire be used.

A British Standard does not purport to include all the necessary provisions of a contract. Users of British Standards are responsible for their correct application.

Compliance with a British Standard does not of itself confer immunity from legal obligations.
