National foreword

This British Standard has been prepared under the direction of the Information Systems Technology Standards Policy Committee. It is identical to ISO 9069:1988 “Information Processing — SGML Support Facilities — SGML Document Interchange Format (SDIF)”, published by the International Organization for Standardization (ISO).

ISO 9069:1988 was accepted as a European Standard by the European Committee for Standardization (CEN) in March 1990. This European Standard is designated EN 29069:1990 and is entitled “Information processing — SGML support facilities — SGML Document Interchange Format (SDIF)”.

The Technical Committee has reviewed the provisions of ISO 8571, ISO/DIS 8613, ISO/DIS 8832 and ISO/IEC DIS 10021 to which reference is made in the text, and has decided that they are acceptable for use in conjunction with this British Standard.

The BSI Technical Committee considers the text of this British Standard is useful as a guide when SGML Document Interchange Format (SDIF) is being described or specified. For this reason this British Standard is issued as a British Standard guide and it should only be used as such. It should not be used on its own as a British Standard specification and in particular no claims of compliance with this British Standard should be made.

A British Standard does not purport to include all the necessary provisions of a contract. Users of British Standards are responsible for their correct application.

Compliance with a British Standard does not of itself confer immunity from legal obligations.
