Foreword

ISO (the International Organization for Standardization) is a worldwide federation of national standards bodies (ISO member bodies). The work of preparing International Standards is normally carried out through ISO technical committees. Each member body interested in a subject for which a technical committee has been established has the right to be represented on that committee. International organizations, governmental and non-governmental, in liaison with ISO, also take part in the work. ISO collaborates closely with the International Electrotechnical Commission (IEC) on all matters of electrotechnical standardization.

The procedures used to develop this document and those intended for its further maintenance are described in the ISO/IEC Directives, Part 1. In particular the different approval criteria needed for the different types of ISO documents should be noted. This document was drafted in accordance with the editorial rules of the ISO/IEC Directives, Part 2 (see www.iso.org/directives).

Attention is drawn to the possibility that some of the elements of this document may be the subject of patent rights. ISO shall not be held responsible for identifying any or all such patent rights. Details of any patent rights identified during the development of the document will be in the Introduction and/or on the ISO list of patent declarations received (see www.iso.org/patents).

Any trade name used in this document is information given for the convenience of users and does not constitute an endorsement.

For an explanation on the voluntary nature of standards, the meaning of ISO specific terms and expressions related to conformity assessment, as well as information about ISO's adherence to the World Trade Organization (WTO) principles in the Technical Barriers to Trade (TBT) see the following URL: www.iso.org/iso/foreword.html.

This document was prepared by ISO/TC 249, Traditional Chinese medicine.

Introduction

The botanical market has great potential; botanical research has been highly regarded and Chinese medicines are gradually becoming increasingly recognized and approved in international markets. Many countries have achieved remarkable success in the exploitation of Chinese medicines, including the application of alternative therapies and the search for pharmaceutical sources. More and more countries are becoming involved in the Chinese medicines trade. At present, the annual sale of Chinese medicines has reached more than USD 16 billion, and is increasing at a rate of 10 % to 20 % per year. More than 70 countries have established Chinese medicines regulations. Many countries are developing traditional medicine vigorously, which brings more opportunities for trade and exchange in Chinese medicines.

The purpose of this document is to:

- 1) specify coding rules for formulae, identify 1 233 formulae, ensure safe and effective application of formulae;
- 2) assist practitioners to use formulae correctly, and promote standardization, normalization and informatization of formula administration;
- 3) promote the wide application of TCM electronic medical records and prescriptions;
- 4) enable source-tracing and controllability of electronic medical records and prescriptions in procedures of diagnosis and prescribing, in order to build a more fair and transparent information system;
- 5) expand the international academic exchange of formulae, and provide technical support for the standardization of prescribing;
- 6) help different countries to establish a standard management system of formulae and Chinese medicine prescriptions, aiming to make the application and management of formulae more effective, safeguard the vital interests of patients, and promote sustainable development of the whole industry.

This document specifies rules to encode formulae, and gives specific codes for 1 233 frequently-used Formulae (1 165 formulae in Annex B and 68 formulae in Annex C). The criteria for selecting the formulae are:

- classic works, such as The Inner Canon of Huangdi (黃帝內經)^[93], Treatise on cold (傷寒論)^[131], Synopsis of Golden Chamber (金匱要略)^[98], treatise on differentiation and treatment of epidemic febrile disease (溫病條辨)^[164], and Chinese pharmacopoeia^{[9][10]};
- experts' manuals for tertiary and second-class hospitals' evaluation of hospital management by TCM State Chinese Medicine Administration Bureau^{[13][14]};
- the Acupuncture and Chinese medicine practitioners' qualification exam guide of the United States (Chinese and English)^[61];
- national project textbooks of Chinese medicine (Version 9): Chinese internal medicine, Surgery of Chinese medicine, Chinese paediatrics, Chinese gynaecology, and formulae of Chinese medicine^{[33][34][35][36][37]};
- a complete collection of Chinese famous doctors' Formulae (9031 in total), Traditional Chinese formula dictionary (11 volumes in total), and Traditional Chinese medicine dictionary^[63].

Traditional Chinese Medicine — Coding system of formulae

1 Scope

This document specifies rules to encode formulae, and gives specific codes for 1 233 frequently-used formulae. Chinese patent medicines (CPM) are outside the scope of this document. Kampo formulae are outside of the scope of this document.

This document is applicable to formula-relating databases in fields of clinical medication, scientific research and teaching, electronic medical records and prescription of traditional Chinese medicine (TCM).

4 Coding principles

4.1 Uniqueness

Each formula corresponds to a unique code.

4.2 Scalability

The coding rules allow sufficient space for expansion.

4.3 Stability

The code for each formula remains unchanged once assigned, as long as the basic characteristic of the formula does not change. Even if some formulae are discontinued for use, their codes should still be kept.

5 Coding technology

5.1 Structure

Formulae are classified according to action. The structure consists of seven layers, with 10 Arabic digits in total, as shown in Figure 1.

5.2 Detailed description

5.2.1 Layer 1

Layer 1 is in categories of agriculture, forestry, pasture husbandry, fishery and Chinese medicines; formulae belong to Chinese medicine, symbolized by “0”, in accordance with ISO 18668-1.

5.2.2 Layer 2

Layer 2, the product code of Chinese medicines, is symbolized by “6”, in accordance with ISO 18668-1.

5.2.3 Layer 3

Layer 3, the category code of formulae, is a special code for formula, symbolized by “0”.

5.2.4 Layer 4

Layer 4, the main code, is symbolized by two digits. The most frequently-used efficacy are selected as the basis for formula classification. Main codes from “01” to “20” are traditionally classified into 20 categories as exterior-releasing formulae, purgative formulae, harmonizing and releasing formulae and so on. In addition, main codes from “41” to “44” are classified into 4 categories as Sasang constitution. See Table 1 for details.

5.2.5 Layer 5

Layer 5, the subdivided code, is a secondary classification under the main code of action, symbolized by one digit. For example, exterior-releasing formulae are classified as pungent-warm exterior-releasing formulae, pungent-cool exterior releasing formulae, healthy-qi-reinforcing and exterior-releasing formulae, and exterior-interior-releasing formulae. There are 68 secondary classifications in total. See Table 1 for details.

5.2.6 Layer 6

Layer 6, the sequence number of formulae, symbolized by three digits, is the order number of the formulae located in the code table. Take Ephedra decoction for example, “001” indicates that Ephedra decoction is the first kind of pungent-warm exterior releasing formula in Table B.1.

5.2.7 Layer 7

Layer 7, the check digit, symbolized by one digit from “0” to “9”, is calculated by the method in ISO/IEC 15420. See Annex A for details.

6 Example

Ephedra Decoction, exterior-releasing formula, with the action of releasing exterior with pungent-warm, which contains Ephedra (encoded as 06141050500104003 according to ISO 18668-2), Cinnamon Twig (06154520200103001), Chan Bitter Apricot Seed (06156140600100820), Processed Liquorice Root (06156310300203354), is encoded as “0 6 0 01 1 001 7”. The first two numbers “06” in layer 1 and layer 2 represent the product of Chinese medicines; the third number “0” in layer 3 represents formulae; the fourth and fifth number “01” in layer 4 represent exterior-releasing formula; the sixth number “1” in layer 5 represents pungent-warm exterior-releasing formula; the seventh, eighth and ninth number “001” in layer 6 represent the first kind of pungent-warm exterior-releasing formula in the table; check digit “7” is calculated by the method given in ISO/IEC 15420. As shown in Figure 2.

Annex A (normative)

Calculation of check digit

A.1 Serial number of code location

This indicates the serial number of the 14 digits from the right to the left, among which the check digit is specified as 1.

A.2 Calculation steps

Calculate the check digit by the method in ISO/IEC 15420.

- a) Sum up the digits located below even serial numbers from serial number 2, to get Result 1.
- b) Multiply Result 1 by 3 to get Result 2.
- c) Sum up the digits located below odd serial numbers from serial number 3, to get Result 3.
- d) Sum up Result 2 and Result 3 to get Result 4.
- e) Subtract Result 4 by a number which is larger or equal to Result 4, and also be the smallest multiple of 10, to get the digit of check digit.

For example, the calculation of code 0600110017 is demonstrated in Table A.1.

Table A.1 — Calculation of check digit

Steps	Demonstration
Number from the right to the left	Serial number	10	9	8	7	6	5	4	3	2	1
	Code	0	6	0	0	1	1	0	0	1	X
a) Sum up the digits located below even serial numbers from serial number 2, to get Result 1 .	$1 + 0 + 1 + 0 + 0 = 2$ (Result 1)
b) Multiply Result 1 by 3 to get Result 2 .	$2 \times 3 = 6$ (Result 2)
c) Sum up the digits located below odd serial numbers from serial number 3, to get Result 3 .	$0 + 1 + 0 + 6 = 7$ (Result 3)
d) Sum up Result 2 and Result 3 to get Result 4 .	$6 + 7 = 13$ (Result 4)
e) Subtract Result 4 by a number which is larger or equal to Result 4 , and also be the smallest multiple of 10, to get the digit of check digit.	$20 - 13 = 7$ check digit X = 7
