FOREWORD

ISO (the International Organization for Standardization) is a worldwide federation of national standards institutes (ISO Member Bodies). The work of developing International Standards is carried out through ISO Technical Committees. Every Member Body interested in a subject for which a Technical Committee has been set up has the right to be represented on that Committee. International organizations, governmental and non-governmental, in liaison with ISO, also take part in the work.

Draft International Standards adopted by the Technical Committees are circulated to the Member Bodies for approval before their acceptance as International Standards by the ISO Council.

International Standard ISO 2777 was drawn up by Technical Committee ISO/TC 59, Building construction, and circulated to the Member Bodies in February 1972.

It has been approved by the Member Bodies of the following countries :

Australia	Germany	South Africa, Rep. of
Austria	Hungary	Spain
Belgium	India	Sweden
Canada	Ireland	Switzerland
Chile	Israel	Thailand
Denmark	Norway	Turkey
Egypt, Arab Rep. of	Poland	United Kingdom
Finland	Romania	U.S.S.R.

The Member Bodies of the following countries expressed disapproval of the document on technical grounds :

France
Netherlands

This International Standard is part of a series of ISO documents concerning modular co-ordination in building construction.

This series includes, among others, the following ISO documents, which lay down the basic principles and design rules of modular co-ordination :

ISO 1006, Modular co-ordination – Basic module.

ISO 1040, Modular co-ordination – Multimodules for horizontal co-ordinating dimensions.

ISO 1789, Modular co-ordination – Storey heights and room heights for residential buildings.

ISO 1791, Modular co-ordination – Vocabulary.

ISO 1803, Tolerances for building – Vocabulary.

ISO 2848, Modular co-ordination – Principles and rules.
